

RESPECTFUL COMMUNICATION

in the workplace

In addressing specific areas of concern proposed by staff members, this course seeks to equip participants with:

- An understanding of the power of effective communication and consistency of approach across a staff for effectiveness with each other, with parents and other stakeholders.
- An appreciation of 'dialogue' wisely chosen as a catalyst for advancement in our dealings with others especially when having difficult conversations.
- An awareness of 'perception formation' and a readiness to take psychological responsibility for workplace health & wellbeing.
- A heightened understanding of the power of EQ in all aspects of interactions in the workplace and with others.
- An alternative view on creation of psychological safety, holding self and others accountable, showing respect for others in the workplace and its benefits, time management and work-life integration.
- Approaches to cultivating 'responsibility' among students for their own learning, their conduct and respectful interactions with others.

Teresa Hand-Campbell

Talent & Executive Consultant | Organisational Psychologist

www.thcconsult.ie

teresa@thcconsult.ie

085 811 5811